[Video] THE LUCY POEMS by William Wordsworth [1:07:41]

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=DF6xHVtdcV8>

One element we miss in reading poetry today is context. We often read poems isolated and alone (the poems that is...) They were meant to be read as a totality. Wordsworth and Coleridge carefully selected the poems they would publish and in what order. To fully understand Wordsworth's haunting "Lucy" poems, we must explore them as they were meant to be read, in the context of "Lyrical Ballads." Lyrical Ballads was initially published in 1798 and it effectually launched the Romantic movement in England. In fact, it had profound effect on all the romantics including the French romantics.

[Video] William Wordsworth: Poetic Style and Main Themes [25:18]

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=S9ImctuYQjs>

William Wordsworth is considered as one of the most representative Romantic Poets of the first generation. Together with S.T. Coleridge he wrote the Lyrical Ballads, in which it is possible to find some of his main themes, together with a Preface where Wordsworth expresses his point of view about the concept of Poet Prophet, of Language and of topics that should be treated by poetry. This video also gives a special insight into some interpretations of Wordsworth's poems (f.i. I wandered lonely as a Cloud or The Daffodils) concerning the use of colours and the concept of Nature as an active force, an organic living whole that can be considered as a source of inspiration and joy for the artist.

No Soft Nonsense: Presenting the Bold Anne Brontë
[Video] [0:50:49]
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=kNcPtN2OSgc>

Join Christine Nelson, Drue Heinz Curator of Literary and Historical Manuscripts, for a fresh look at Anne Brontë (1820–1849), bold author and truth-teller, through the artifacts she left behind. After Brontë published a pseudonymous novel featuring graphic depictions of addiction and domestic abuse, one reviewer accused the author of harboring “a morbid love for the coarse, not to say the brutal.” She issued a written retort: “If I can gain the public ear at all, I would rather whisper a few wholesome truths therein than much soft nonsense.” With highlights from the Morgan’s collection of Brontëana, one of the finest in the world, this presentation complements the current bicentenary installation in the Rotunda of J. Pierpont Morgan’s Library.

George Bernard Shaw (26 July 1856 – 2 November 1950), known at his insistence simply as Bernard Shaw, was an Irish playwright, critic, polemicist and political activist. His influence on Western theatre, culture and politics extended from the 1880s to his death and beyond. He wrote more than sixty plays, including major works such as Man and Superman (1902), Pygmalion (1912) and Saint Joan (1923). With a range incorporating both contemporary satire and historical allegory, Shaw became the leading dramatist of his generation, and in 1925 was awarded the Nobel Prize in Literature.

At the end of World War II, English writer George Orwell used cold war, as a general term, in his essay "You and the Atomic Bomb", published 19 October 1945 in the British newspaper Tribune. Contemplating a world living in the shadow of the threat of nuclear warfare, Orwell looked at James Burnham's predictions of a polarized world, writing:

"Looking at the world as a whole, the drift for many decades has been not towards anarchy but towards the re-imposition of slavery... James Burnham's theory has been much discussed, but few people have yet considered its ideological implications—that is, the kind of world-view, the kind of beliefs, and the social structure that would probably prevail in a state which was at once unconquerable and in a permanent state of "cold war" with its neighbours".

Abdulrazak Gurnah is the winner of the 2021 Nobel Prize in Literature. After fleeing his native Zanzibar for the United Kingdom at age 18, Gurnah turned to writing in English as a way to make sense of the hardships of a refugee's existence. With a gift for transforming the experience of displacement into gripping fiction, Gurnah brings intimacy and humanity to the realities of colonialism. Afterlives follows a trio of young people living, working, and falling in love, their fates knotted ever more tightly together against the backdrop of the German colonial rule of 20th-century East Africa.

Gurnah is in conversation with Tope Folarin, the Executive Director of the Institute for Policy Studies, the Lannan Visiting Lecturer in Creative Writing at Georgetown University, and the author of the novel A Particular Kind of Black Man.

 UNLIKE Emily
by iphigene

I will stay with you tonight
Hang round like the tiny spack
Of moon dust lingering in evening leaves.

I shall read you a few lines
From dear Emily Dickinson
Your favorite, then mine.
Like a robin
I shall pick you up again
And let us live in vain
Yes,
I shall pick you up
Hold you between my palms
And cross off the hair
Falling across your face—
Of inner like language
And eternal stillness.

Shall I have this,
The echoing silence in my head
For another
Nine months of your passing life?

And my words shall soon grow tired
Of bearing itself in the absence
Of your witty remarks
And thunderous laughter
And my hope shall clip its wings
And drown in the acid sadness
Of your sleeping beauty existence
Reflected across heating green lines.

They shall ask me
My child
If I must nip your young life
To the permanent eternity
It seems to desire
And I shall look
At you and let that secret kiss of death
Flow through your veins

Resting forever in the arms
Of twilight's weep
For unlike our poetess words
You stopped for death
And he came in haste
And obligingly.

IF I can stop one heart from breaking,
I shall not live in vain;
If I can ease one life the aching,
Or cool one pain,
Or help one fainting robin
Unto his nest again,
I shall not live in vain.

- Emily Dickinson

Exaltation is the breeze
Exaltation is the breeze
That lifts us from the ground
And leaves us in another place
Whose statement is not found—
Returns us not, but after time
We soberly descend,
A little wiser for the term
Upon enchanted ground.

Exaltation - joy, imagination statement - definite meaning

To make a prairie it takes a clover and one bee
To make a prairie it takes a clover and one bee,
One clover, and a bee,
And revery.
The revery alone will do
If bees are few.

*prairie - meadow
revery - daydream*

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Jt4oBRGKkM0>

Elysium Theatre Company presents the first in their series of online workshops on great American playwrights: Eugene O'Neill. O'Neill is seen as the founding father of American drama. It was he who laid the foundations of a uniquely American tragic vision on stage. From his experimental early plays to his late masterpieces, he strove to find new forms to encompass his titanic vision of the human condition, a vision which, he hoped, would have the splendour of a Greek tragedy. In this workshop we take in his whole creative output, but focus on three plays, 'The Hairy Ape', 'The Iceman Cometh' and 'Long Day's Journey Into Night'.

About the Play: The play premiered on Broadway in 1946, when it ran for 136 performances. It has subsequently been adapted for the screen multiple times. It tells the story of a number of alcoholic dead-enders and what happens to them when the most outwardly "successful" of them embraces sobriety and reveals that he has been on the run for years after murdering his "beloved" wife.

Ah yes, Hermann Hesse's Siddhartha. You probably read it in high school or college as a young seeker of truth, but have you read it later in life? Do the messages change after you too have gone out into the world and been both drawn to and broken by its sweet, empty promises? And most importantly, have you been pronouncing Siddhartha properly all this time? (We haven't.)

Join Nathan and David as they take another spin through Hesse's most known novel. But just remember — we could tell you what this novel is about, but one can only share knowledge, not wisdom.

The Glass Bead Game by Hermann Hesse, also known as Magister Ludi, is a literary masterpiece that delves deep into the realms of intellectual pursuit, spiritual exploration, and the interconnectedness of all forms of knowledge. Set in the distant future, the novel takes place in the fictional province of Castalia, a secluded society dedicated entirely to the cultivation of the mind. Here, scholars devote their lives to mastering the Glass Bead Game—a complex, symbolic game that synthesizes music, mathematics, and philosophy into a single, unified experience.

This week on The Cine-Files, John and Steve explore John Ford's powerful, and still very relevant, 1940 classic, The Grapes of Wrath. Based on the Pulitzer prize winning novel by John Steinbeck, The Grapes of Wrath stars Henry Fonda, Jane Darwell and John Carradine in the story of The Joad Family's harrowing pilgrimage to California.

O. Henry's Full House is a 1952 American anthology film made by 20th Century Fox, consisting of five films, each based on a story by O. Henry [William Sydney Porter (September 11, 1862 – June 5, 1910)] André Hakim is producer. The film is directed by five directors from five screenplays with different authors. The music score was composed by Alfred Newman. The film is narrated by author John Steinbeck, who made his only on-camera appearance to introduce each story.

Nathaniel Hawthorne (July 4, 1804 - May 19, 1864) was an American novelist, dark romantic, and short story writer. His works often focus on history, morality, and religion.

He was born in 1804 in Salem, Massachusetts, to Nathaniel Hawthorne and the former Elizabeth Clarke Manning. His ancestors include John Hathorne, the only judge from the Salem witch trials who never repented his involvement. Hawthorne entered Bowdoin College in 1821, was elected to Phi Beta Kappa in 1824, and graduated in 1825. He published his first work in 1828, the novel Fanshawe; he later tried to suppress it, feeling that it was not equal to the standard of his later work. He published several short stories in periodicals, which he collected in 1837 as Twice-Told Tales. The following year, he became engaged to Sophia Peabody. He worked at the Boston Custom House and joined Brook Farm, a transcendentalist community, before marrying Peabody in 1842. The couple moved to The Old Manse in Concord, Massachusetts, later moving to Salem, the Berkshires, then to The Wayside in Concord. The Scarlet Letter was published in 1850, followed by a succession of other novels. A political appointment as consul took Hawthorne and family to Europe before their return to Concord in 1860. Hawthorne died on May 19, 1864, and was survived by his wife and their three children.

[Video] Sir Arthur Conan Doyle: More Than Sherlock [1:22:51]

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=SO6mhJUK9mE>

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle was a prolific writer and created many characters other than Sherlock Holmes and Watson. His works include fantasy and science fiction stories, as well as plays, romances, poetry, nonfiction, and historical novels. This program goes beyond Sherlock and introduces you to Doyle's equally striking works of fiction.

[Video] Sir Arthur Conan Doyle [1:09:15]

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=CTfo5mYxSHY>

Conan Doyle, a superb writer and a prominent physician, created the character Sherlock Holmes in 1887 for A Study in Scarlet, the first of four novels and 56 short stories about Holmes and Dr. Watson, all considered milestones in crime fiction. But Doyle was a prolific writer and created many other wonderful characters; his works include fantasy and science fiction and humorous stories, as well as plays, romances, poetry, non-fiction, and historical novels.

[Video] The Real World of Arthur Conan Doyle [53:43]

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=HkFTZRRTeUQ>

For well over a century, the Sherlock Holmes novels have dominated the world of crime fiction and perpetuated a particular view of life in Victorian and Edwardian England: a world of criminal masterminds, intricate homicides and London as a detective's playground. Yet the real world was far more complex. With the launch of Shrabani Basu's riveting new book, The Mystery of the Parsee Lawyer, and the release of Netflix's new Sherlock series The Irregulars, this fascinating panel event explores the overlooked world of Arthur Conan Doyle - from prejudice and racism to child poverty and upper-class drug addiction. Chaired by BBC broadcaster Dr Matthew Sweet, panellists include Shrabani Basu and Dr Clare Clarke.

He is the best known and most loved of all fictional private detectives. He has been immortalized in books, films, games and plays. There is scarcely a person alive who has not heard of the man who lived at 221B Baker Street. But what if we were to tell you that Sherlock Holmes actually did hold secrets locked away in his tales and character by the author, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle?

There is probably no one more important to modern horror storytelling than Stephen King. The sheer volume of work that he has produced will probably never be matched. Perhaps only Shakespeare has more writing credits for film adaptations than he does... and maybe not even the Bard can match him. From the risible Dreamcatcher to the brilliant The Shining, King's films run the full gamut, and yet there is a tonal consistency to them. Even some of his bad movies can be entertaining. Maximum Overdrive is absolutely awful but oddly watchable.

The Perennial Philosophy, or Perennialism for short, claims that the depth traditions found within the major world religions all converge upon the same metaphysical vision - namely, the identification of our deepest selves with a divine, transcendental ground. Popularized by Aldous Huxley in his 1945 The Perennial Philosophy it has a natural appeal to many thinking, spiritually inclined individuals - including those who have never explicitly heard of it.
In this debate Jonathan will critique the perennial philosophy; Zevi will defend it.

[Video] Anita Desai [00:51:48]

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=qGpPR0dXOno>

Anita Desai's latest book, The Artist of Disappearance, blends irony, sympathy and a clear-eyed criticism of contemporary culture, in three novellas that explore the frailty and transforming power of art. The India of Desai's childhood transformed after Partition; later she left for new homes in England and the United States, though India remains her canvas.

In this discussion, hosted by Hilary Harper, Desai offers her consideration of a broad range of topics including identity, craft and the 'tremendous changes' that have taken place in India, leaving her often feeling insulated from the real conditions of her home country.

She talks about the frustration of wishing to rewrite lines from old books; about the unfortunate occurrence of some readers taking her work as a representation of the whole of India (and its literature); about finding an unexpected feeling of belonging in Mexico and being mentored by a Polish woman during her early writing days in India.

Anita Desai discusses "The Artist of Disappearance" and her extraordinary body of work, with 2012 Man Booker finalist Deborah Levy.

Firmly established as the most revered Indian novelist of her generation, Anita Desai's writing spans decades, continents and emotional landscapes. With her singular voice, she deals with issues of identity, place, language and loss. Anita has been shortlisted for the Man Booker Prize three times, has received the Sahitya Akademi Award and The Guardian Prize. In this conversation, Anita discusses the forces and motivations behind her incredible literary works.

Some have referred to him as “the prince of paradox.” As Time magazine once observed, “Whenever possible, Chesterton made his points with popular sayings, proverbs and allegories—first carefully turning them inside out.” One of those sayings, “Never discuss religion and politics in polite company,” provided fuel for Chesterton, who once quipped, “I never discuss anything else except politics and religion. There is nothing else to discuss.”

In this claymation film, celebrated author Mark Twain, displeased with the state of humanity, sets off in a hot-air balloon to meet his celestial destiny: Halley's Comet. Stowed away on the craft are beloved characters from Twain's stories -- Tom Sawyer, Becky Thatcher and Huckleberry Finn. As Twain's balloon ascends ever higher to its ultimate goal, his literary creations try to persuade him of the essential goodness of man.

What is the source of Mahatma Gandhi's enduring appeal? What kind of inner and outer practices did he cultivate that have made him such a revered figure in history? How can we, like Gandhi, successfully create a daily pathway to our Inner Core? And how can we, in our own spheres of influence, learn to quell people's passions, bring them together, and move humanity forward in a unified way even in the divisive social conditions we are confronted with today? Find out from Gandhi's own grandson, Rajmohan Gandhi, in conversation with Dr. Hitendra Wadhwa on Intersections Podcast.

THE COMPLETE PERSONAL ESSAYS OF ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON

For all of Robert Louis Stevenson's achievements in fiction, many of his contemporaries thought of him primarily as an essayist. His essays, known for their intellectual substance, emotional force, and stylistic vitality, were widely considered the best of their time. Despite the importance of Stevenson's nonfiction, his personal essays—seventy in total—have never been printed together in a single volume until now. This volume gathers his personal essays, many of which have never appeared in any modern edition, in their authorized versions. These essays are still considered classic models of the form, and in this volume, the Editor presents them alongside an introduction and notes to assist in a rereading and reappreciation that is long overdue.

Irrepressible Shobhaa | Shobhaa De in conversation with Sanjoy K. Roy

[Video] <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=JuQ5URHlgZs> [40:20]

Age cannot wither her, nor custom stale her infinite charm. Shobhaa De defies the rules of nature and grows younger every year. De is among India's most popular and gloriously irreverent writers. She has worked in journalism, as an editor of three major magazines and is the author of 25 books, including Socialite Evenings, Starry Nights, Spouse, and Superstar India. Her column for The Times of India, Politically Incorrect, carries unapologetic and remarkably candid observations on politics, society, economics and relationships. In conversation with Sanjoy K. Roy, she discusses her books, her riveting column and a life and career that defies convention and boasts absolute splendor, even if 'politically incorrect'.

Second Thoughts

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Second_Thoughts_\(Shobhaa_De_novel\))

Second Thoughts is a collection of papers on Schizophrenia, Linking and Thinking, and is a commentary upon them in the light of later work. Originally composed between 1950 and 1962, it derives its title from the lengthy critical commentary which Bion attached to these case histories in the year of publication, 1967, and represents the evolutionary change of position marked in his three previous books and brought to further refinement in the present work.

Socialite Evenings

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Socialite_Evenings

Socialite Evenings (1989) is Shobha De's first novel. It describes Mumbai high society and explores the lives of bored, rich housewives trapped in loveless marriages and engaging in ill-fated extramarital affairs, smug selfish husbands who use their wives more for social respectability than for love, fashionable parties, false spiritual leaders, and a portrait of the general moral, spiritual and intellectual bankruptcy and decadence of the elite who have traded their traditional culture for Westernization and materialism.

Speedpost (book)

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Speedpost_\(book\))

Speedpost is a book written in 1999 by Shobha De. The book is a series of letters to her six children, either grown, or nearly so. The subjects she approaches through the medium of letters include: growing pains and adolescent anxieties about love, sex and friendship; religion and God; the challenge of being a responsible parent, death, remembrance and family traditions, the place of career, sex and of values in the lives of her children.

At 76, Shobhaa De's Untold Story / Bharka Dutt

[Video] <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=j2bD7XfRdxg> [1:04:28]

Author & Columnist Shobhaa De speaks to Barkha Dutt in the 43rd episode of our podcast, 'Inside Out with Barkha Dutt'. One of India's most popular writers, Shobhaa De has seen it all: life as a model, a copywriter, a journalist, a socialite, a scriptwriter and a bestselling novelist. She is best known for her depiction of socialites and sex in her works of fiction, for which she has been referred to as the "Jackie Collins of India". She was a star columnist for the magazine Stardust at age 23, which included Bollywood interviews, gossip, and photographs. Watch her candid conversation with Barkha Dutt in the latest episode of our podcast.

Shobhaa De: Defying Mediocrity and Living Life Unfiltered

[Video] <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Id-oO8s9nGU> [50:31]

We're thrilled to have the legendary Shobha De - celebrated author, columnist, and an unapologetic voice of change. In this candid conversation, Shobha delves deep into the paradox of aging, beauty, and timeless sexiness in a world obsessed with youth. With her trademark wit and wisdom, Shobha challenges societal norms, urging women to embrace their age with pride and confidence. She shares her thoughts on how the pressures to look young and desirable often fuel insecurity, but also how real empowerment comes from owning one's identity at any stage of life. From defying traditional beauty standards to redefining what beauty means, this episode is a powerful commentary on the evolving narrative around female empowerment.

THE LETTER, A Short Story by Somerset Maugham

[Video] <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=VTZ59y4xer8> [1:22:38]

"The Letter" by Somerset Maugham tells the story of Leslie Crosbie, who shoots Geoffrey Hammond in self-defense after he attempts to assault her. Set in British Malaya, the plot unravels Leslie's seemingly justified act when a compromising letter she wrote to Hammond surfaces, revealing their prior affair. Her lawyer, Mr. Joyce, navigates the legal and moral complexities to defend her in court. The narrative explores themes of colonialism, justice, and the intricacies of human behavior under duress.

BERTRAND RUSSELL, The Mathematician, The Philosopher, The Sceptic, A Salient Biography

[Video] <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=YxoKopuIgAs> [57:43]

Imagine a life where one man, armed with the sharpest intellect and a refusal to bow to convention, reshapes not only the foundations of logic but also the very way we think about morality, war, and the universe itself. Bertrand Russell, philosopher, mathematician, and fearless critic of societal norms, lived a life of audacious inquiry and unrelenting pursuit of truth. From his groundbreaking work Principia Mathematica that rewired the logic of mathematics, to his fierce pacifism that landed him in prison during World War I, Russell's journey is a testament to the power of reason and courage in an irrational world.

With a mind that bridged abstract theory and pressing human concerns, Russell fought tirelessly for nuclear disarmament, wrote fiery critiques of religion and war, and challenged the hypocrisy of moral conventions—often at great personal cost. Whether unravelling the mysteries of logic or marching in the streets for peace, Russell's life was a rare fusion of academic rigor and moral conviction. This is the story of a man who dared to question everything, reshaping the world in the process. Bertrand Russell's legacy isn't just history—it's a call to think deeper, act braver, and never stop questioning.

THREE CLASSIC STORIES TOGETHER by EM Forster

[Video] <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=aCIPQpSpny8> [1:11:27]

What if the greatest journey wasn't across continents—but into the depths of your own heart?

In A Room with a View, E.M. Forster takes us from the sunlit hills of Florence to the shaded parlors of Edwardian England, where propriety stifles passion and every feeling is weighed against convention. Lucy Honeychurch, a young woman torn between safety and selfhood, must decide whether to marry the man society approves—or follow the call of something wilder, freer, and infinitely more dangerous: her own desires. With wit, tenderness, and biting irony, Forster exposes the quiet tragedies of a life half-lived—and the thrilling courage it takes to claim one's own room, one's own view, and ultimately, one's own voice.

This is not just a love story. It is a call to live honestly in a world that begs for pretence.

THE ETERNAL MOMENT, A Short Story by EM Forster

[Video] <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=4ktoWhoQtpg> [1:17:07]

In the story, Miss Raby, burdened by her past actions, seeks understanding and redemption by conversing with Feo, a former acquaintance whose life she believes she has impacted negatively. As she speaks on a terrace overlooking a dramatic landscape, she reflects on her life and the fire of her passions, which now seem distant yet intense. She proposes to take Feo's youngest child under her care, believing she can educate him beyond the prejudices of wealth and class. Feo, bewildered.....

We wrap up a month of requests... and the year 2023... with a look at Fred Zinnemann's The Day of the Jackal. Based on the book by Frederick Forsyth, the film stars Edward Fox as the titular Jackal, an assassin as cool as a cucumber in a bowl of hot sauce. He's hired by members of the OAS, a holdout group of paramilitary terrorist organization who were holdouts who tried to keep Algeria a French colony. They hire The Jackal to assassinate president Charles de Gaulle in August, 1962.

Ian Brownell and Rich Edwards join Mike to discuss Zinneman's film and the 1997 remake with Bruce Willis and Richard Gere, The Jackal.

Henry David Thoreau and the Necessity of Conviction

[Video] <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=JLmuTTCmkXo> [51:59]

For generations, Henry David Thoreau has been a model of how to live according to one's deepest convictions. His writing inspired Gandhi's doctrine of passive resistance, and his experiment in living a simple existence at Walden remains a touchstone for the environmental movement. Thoreau was an immensely complex man, however, and now we have a modern biography adequate to his thought and his art, Laura Dassow Walls' Henry David Thoreau: A Life. Perhaps the leading scholar today on Thoreau, Walls puts her subject at the intersections of science and philosophy in nineteenth-century America.

In today's episode Larry Buell and I discuss Thoreau's geographical, historical, social, and intellectual contexts; his friendship with Ralph Waldo Emerson; why he went out to live on a pond for 2 years, 2 months, and 2 days and how it changed him; the difference between wildness and wilderness; why we're drawn to the simplicity of wild natural landscapes and the ideals of moral perfection; the body, the senses, attunement and attention; the connection between solitude and contemplation; the importance of individual moral conscience and the concept of civil disobedience; Thoreau's one night in jail and the legacy of his political witness; and ultimately, what it means to think disobediently.

Henry David Thoreau <=> Documentary

[Video] <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=t5CchLjEY8Q> [39:44]

Henry David Thoreau (July 12, 1817 - May 6, 1862) was an American naturalist, essayist, poet, and philosopher. A leading transcendentalist, he is best known for his book Walden, a reflection upon simple living in natural surroundings, and his essay "Civil Disobedience" (originally published as "Resistance to Civil Government"), an argument for disobedience to an unjust state.

Thoreau's books, articles, essays, journals, and poetry amount to more than 20 volumes. Among his lasting contributions are his writings on natural history and philosophy, in which he anticipated the methods and findings of ecology and environmental history, two sources of modern-day environmentalism. His literary style interweaves close observation of nature, personal experience, pointed rhetoric, symbolic meanings, and historical lore, while displaying a poetic sensibility, philosophical austerity, and attention to practical detail. He was also deeply interested in the idea of survival in the face of hostile elements, historical change, and natural decay; at the same time he advocated abandoning waste and illusion in order to discover life's true essential needs.

In his own description of himself, Jerry Pinto is a poet. His first book of poems Asylum (Allied Publishers) was released in 2004. His first book was Surviving Women (Penguin India, 2000) a manual of gender politics, written for confused Indian men, which has gone into several reprints. Bombay Meri Jaan: Writings on Mumbai (Penguin India, 2003), which he co-edited with Naresh Fernandes, has also been reprinted. He has also edited Reflected in Water: Writings on Goa (Penguin India, 2006). Together with Arundhati Subramaniam, he has edited Confronting Love; Contemporary Indian Love Poems in English. They have also edited A Pocketful of Wry; Indian Poets Also Laugh expected soon from Penguin India. In 2006, Helen: The Life and Times of an H Bomb was released. It was as much a study of Bollywood's gender and race politics as it was an affectionate examination of a dancing legend who had served the Mumbai film industry for nearly 30 years. The book won the National Award for the Best Book on Cinema.

Few lives from history can have contained as many strange and exciting strands as that of Lord Byron's, whose story reflects the great dramas of the Napoleonic era. A vampiric hero of devilish charisma; a martyr for liberty, a licentious lothario; Byron's cultural and literary impact cannot be underestimated. The remarkable course of his life, and his mercurial nature can in part be explained by the dark events of his childhood, and the outlandish history of his own family.

The Messy Life of Chaos Bisexual Lord Byron

[Video] <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=yg5KeD45nek> [52:39]

Once called "Mad, bad, and dangerous to know," Lord George Gordon Byron was a mess of historic proportions. His talent was as famous as his bisexuality, along with numerous scandalous affairs, leading to his effective exile from England. But he also died a national hero in Greece, leaving Lord Byron with an incredibly mixed legacy. Come learn with me about this romantic scoundrel.

The world today would give a good deal to he allowed, to read the Memoirs which Lord Byron wrote between 1818 and 1821 and entrusted to his friend Thomas Moore. After the poet's death the manuscript was burned, for reasons explained by DORIS LANGLEY MOORE, the English scholar and novelist, in this absorbing detective essay.

Historian Jennifer Ochman presents her first-person interpretation of famous author and nurse, Louisa May Alcott. While most people know Alcott as the author of Little Women, she was also an active abolitionist and feminist. In 1862, she volunteered as a nurse in a Washington, D.C. hospital, later writing of her experiences there in her work Hospital Sketches.

ROBERT BROWNING: LAST DUCHESS AND PROPICE

[Video] <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=sE2bZ9hZPKQ> [1:00:23]

Robert Browning, (1812-1889), a major English poet of the Victorian age, was noted for his mastery of dramatic monologue and psychological portraiture. My Last Duchess is the most famous of his dramatic monologues. The Ring and the Book, Fra Lippo Lippi, Caliban upon Setebos, Soliloquy of the Spanish Cloister and Porphyria's Lover, as well as the other poems in Men and Women are just a handful of Browning's monologues. The main theme of 'Prospice' by Robert Browning is death. However, it also deals with themes of courage and optimism in the face of death. Additionally, it deals with the ultimate optimism: life after death.

Amitav Ghosh on 'The Great Derangement'

[Video] <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=S3t3NTeo-QI> [1:33:00]

Are we deranged? Acclaimed Indian novelist Amitav Ghosh argues that future generations may well think so, given our imaginative failure in the face of global warming. In this powerful presentation, Ghosh charts the complicity of fiction in shaping the priorities and consumer choices of the world we have created. When our descendants look back at this moment from a "substantially altered world", he predicts, they will conclude that ours was a time when most forms of art and literature prevented people from recognizing the realities of their plight. They will think of our current moment on earth as the "time of the Great Derangement".

Doris Lessing The Golden Notebook

[Video] <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=iRKSrWOA15U> [1:08:00]

Doris Lessing (Nobel prize winner) wrote "The Golden Notebook" in 1962. Groundbreaking in its day (publication coming just a year after the Chatterley ban was lifted in Britain) some would say it has 'dated' somewhat. It still has a great deal to say about authorship, friendship, motherhood and politics. Decide for yourself. This is a radioplay dramatisation - Part2 to follow soon.

[Video] <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=8bkcANTEepQ> [2:38:19]

You've undoubtedly heard of Dr. Seuss. The author of The Cat in the Hat, How the Grinch Stole Christmas!, Green Eggs and Ham, Horton Hears a Who!, The Lorax, and so many other classic works of children's literature. But... how much do you know about Ted Geisel? Ted is the man behind the pseudonym, and he lived a very interesting life. And he wasn't able to make a living as the author of children's book until he was in his fifties

Book Launch: The Letters of Emily Dickinson

[Video] <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=sI0yyotZsmY> [1:15:51]

Emily Dickinson was a letter writer before she was a poet. And it was through letters that she shared prose reflections—alternately humorous, provocative, affectionate, and philosophical—with her extensive community. While her letters often contain poems, and some letters consist entirely of a single poem, they also constitute a rich genre all their own. Through her correspondence, Dickinson appears in her many facets as a reader, writer, and thinker; social commentator and comedian; friend, neighbor, sister, and daughter. Editor Cristanne Miller along with Brooke Steinhauser (Senior Director of Programs at the Emily Dickinson Museum) share a lively conversation about this new edition.

The Turn of the Screw

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/The_Turn_of_the_Screw

The Turn of the Screw is an 1898 gothic horror novella by Henry James which first appeared in serial format in Collier's Weekly from January 27 to April 16, 1898. On October 7, 1898, it was collected in The Two Magics, published by Macmillan in New York City and Heinemann in London. The novella follows a governess who, caring for two children at a remote country house, becomes convinced that they are haunted. The Turn of the Screw is considered a work of both Gothic and horror fiction.

Exploring the Literary Legacy of Henry James:
Masterpieces, Analysis, and The Art of Fiction

[Video] <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=kcLtSr6zI0> [22:37]

Join us in a literary journey through the masterful works of Henry James, a titan of American literature from 1843 to 1916. From the insightful Daisy Miller (1878) to the haunting The Turn of the Screw (1898), and the intricate The Portrait of a Lady (1881), we'll delve into the timeless tales crafted by James. Uncover the nuances of his writing in The Art of Fiction (1884) and explore the psychological complexities of characters in What Maisie Knew (1897). We'll navigate through the intricate relationships of The Wings of the Dove (1902) and The Ambassadors (1903), and explore the moral dilemmas presented in The Golden Bowl (1904). Henry James' literary genius will come to life as we analyze the themes, characters, and impact of these timeless works.

Herman Melville - Unappreciated and Almost Forgotten - Biography

[Video] <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=qYG6u7quOsU> [49:51]

Although Herman Melville is now regarded as one of America's most important writers, in his lifetime, after early success with his South Seas travel books, his work received mostly negative reviews from the critics and he was largely ignored by the buying public. His greatest works were written in bursts of feverish activity but as he got older he went into prolonged slumps of dark depression, writing little and drifting quietly into obscurity. This biographical documentary explores the colourful, but tragic life of one of the world's most celebrated writers - a man whose literary achievements were unappreciated, forcing him to spend 19 years grafting away as a lowly customs inspector instead of writing, a man plagued by frustration and illness, but a man who was able to use his experiences to reveal unprecedented insights into the darker recesses of the human soul.

Ulysses is a modernist novel by Irish writer James Joyce. It was first serialized in parts in the American journal The Little Review from March 1918 to December 1920 and then published in its entirety in Paris by Sylvia Beach on 2 February 1922, Joyce's 40th birthday. It is considered one of the most important works of modernist literature and has been called "a demonstration and summation of the entire movement." According to Declan Kiberd, "Before Joyce, no writer of fiction had so foregrounded the process of thinking".

If you seek parallels between J.D. Salinger and Thomas Pynchon they're easy to find. Both were literary geniuses. Both were publicity-shunning recluses. Both men were psychosexually arrested by God knows what primal wound. Salinger seemed able to bond only with very young women and girls. Pynchon had a pattern -- somehow linked to inability to form normal alliances -- of hijacking the wives and partners of his friends.

SKETCHES IN CHURCH HISTORY: PART III

[Video] <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=N28fRgzEqcs> [1:03:40]

As Christians we have a 2,000-year history filled with stories to tell and lessons to learn. "Sketches In Church History" is a series of lectures delivered by Kevin DeYoung that offer a snapshot of key figures and consequential moments in time.

After looking at the early church and the medieval period across 20 unique lectures in Part I & Part II, we now turn our attention to the Reformation, the Puritan era, and the transatlantic Awakening.

"Sketches In Church History: Part III" explores the broader themes, ideas, and movements from the end of the medieval period up to the beginning of the modern world. We cover familiar individuals like Martin Luther, John Calvin, Jonathan Edwards, and George Whitefield, as well as men and women slightly less known to us like Thomas Cranmer, William of Orange, and Susannah Wesley.

Kevin DeYoung delivered this lecture during Sunday School at Christ Covenant Church in Matthews, NC on October 6, 2024.

What Can We Learn from John Bunyan's Reformed Experiential Preaching?

[Video] <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=xz6jhXykEDO> [53:09]

Dr. Joel Beeke's sermon discusses the reformed experiential preaching of John Bunyan, highlighting his focus on engaging the heart and soul of his audience. Bunyan, known for his authenticity and passion, preached from his own experiences of doubt and salvation, emphasizing the importance of union with Christ and the urgency of repentance. His sermons were characterized by participatory elements, often involving impersonations to draw listeners into the message. Despite imprisonment, Bunyan continued to preach and write, driven by his conviction and the support of his congregation. His works, particularly 'Pilgrim's Progress,' reflect his deep understanding of the human soul's struggles and the redemptive power of Christ. Bunyan's preaching was marked by a fervent plea for sinners to embrace salvation, often using vivid imagery and personal appeals to convey the gravity of sin and the necessity of Christ's grace.

Our sweetest songs are those that tell of saddest thought

*Rise like Lions after slumber
In unvanquishable number
Shake your chains to earth like dew
Which in sleep had fallen on you
Ye are many -- they are few*

*Rose leaves, when the rose is dead
Are heaped for the beloved's bed
And so thy thoughts, when thou art gone
Love itself shall slumber on*

*Death is the veil which those who live call life
They sleep, and it is lifted*

Ideas about utopia and the future are at the heart of many of Percy Bysshe Shelley's greatest works. But Shelley described the act of anticipating a future 'period of regeneration and happiness' as a 'hazardous exercise'. This talk by Dr Jonathan Quayle, Lecturer in Romantic Literature, Newcastle University will explore how Shelley takes on this challenge in his poetry and how he understands the act of imagining the future to be a crucial responsibility of poets—the 'unacknowledged legislators of the world'.

Family tree of Ralph Waldo EMERSON

<https://en.geneastar.org/genealogy/ralphwaldoemersonr/ralph-waldo-emerson>

Emerson was born in Boston, Massachusetts, son of Ruth Haskins and the Rev. William Emerson, a Unitarian minister. He was named after his mother's brother Ralph and the father's great-grandmother Rebecca Waldo. Ralph Waldo was the second of five sons who survived into adulthood; the others were William, Edward, Robert Bulkeley, and Charles. Three other children—Phebe, John Clarke, and Mary Caroline—died in childhood.

The young Ralph Waldo Emerson's father died from stomach cancer on May 12, 1811, less than two weeks before Emerson's eighth birthday. Emerson was raised by his mother, with the help of the other women in the family; his aunt Mary Moody Emerson in particular had a profound effect on Emerson. She lived with the family off and on, and maintained a constant correspondence with Emerson until her death in 1863.

Frost Medal, annual poetry award presented by the Poetry Society of America in recognition of the lifetime achievements of an American poet. The medal was first awarded in 1930.

The award was originally called the Gold Medal for Distinguished Achievement, but the name was later changed to honour American poet Robert Frost. It was initially discretionary and could be awarded to poets living or dead, or not awarded at all. In 1984 it became an annual award bestowed upon a living poet. It was occasionally given to two poets in a single year.

Why does the poet Robert Frost continue to beguile and intrigue readers 150 years after his birth? What is it about the four-time Pulitzer winner's poems—deceptively simple evocations of landscape, work, village life, and love suffused with remarkable power, subtlety, and complexity—that makes them so quintessentially American?

[Video] <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=0U-eqkUQ3jc> [57:20]

Seamus Perry and Mark Ford look at the life and work of Robert Frost, the great American poet of fences and dark woods. They discuss Frost's difficult early life as an occasional poultry farmer and teacher, his arrival in England in 1912 amid the flowering of Georgian poetry, and his emergence as the first 20th-century professional poet, whose version of the American wilderness myth, full of mischief and foreboding, took him to packed concert halls and a presidential inauguration.

"Audiences will get to experience these poems performed aloud, and then have the gift of hearing Jay's vast trove of stories about Robert Frost interspersed throughout the evening," Biancosino said.

The event includes a Q&A session with author Jay Parini, which provides a glimpse into the book's accompanying commentaries on one of our most beloved and enduring poets. "Memorizing a poem can teach us much about a poem's structure and argument, and about the resonance of particular words. And best of all, memorization makes a poem part of our inner lives," Parini said

Samuel Taylor Coleridge's definition of the imagination is often seen by the critical tradition as the quintessential definition of Romanticism. Yet he strongly disagrees with William Wordsworth on the definition. So the question is whether Coleridge does define the period or whether he ultimately takes issue with it.

Inglorious Empire: What the British Did to India, first published in India as An Era of Darkness: The British Empire in India, is a work of non-fiction by Shashi Tharoor, an Indian politician and diplomat, on the effects of British colonial rule on India. The book has received mixed reviews. In 2017, Tharoor won the 2017 Ramnath Goenka Excellence in Journalism Award and the 2019 Sahitya Akademi Award for this work.

The Great Indian Novel

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/The_Great_Indian_Novel

The Great Indian Novel is a satirical novel by Shashi Tharoor, first published by Viking Press in 1989. It is a fictional work that takes the story of the Mahabharata, the Indian epic, and recasts and resets it in the context of the Indian independence movement and the first three decades post-independence. Figures from Indian history are transformed into characters from mythology, and the mythical story of India is retold as a history of Indian independence and subsequent history, up through the 1970s. Some critics have identified an element of subversion in the novel.[1] The work includes numerous puns and allusions to famous works about India, such as those by Rudyard Kipling, Paul Scott, and E. M. Forster.

"The Autobiography of William Butler Yeats" offers an insightful glimpse into the formative years and artistic development of one of the most significant poets of the 20th century. Yeats reflects on his early life in Ireland, drawing connections to key influences, including his family, particularly his father, and notable literary figures of the time. The narrative spans his childhood memories in Sligo and Dublin, illustrating how these locales inspired his poetic imagination, which is deeply intertwined with Irish culture and folklore.

Born in Sandymount, Dublin, Ireland, on June 13, 1865, William Butler Yeats was the son of the well-known Irish painter, John Butler Yeats. He spent his childhood in County Sligo, where his parents were raised, and in London. He returned to Dublin at the age of fifteen to continue his education and to study painting, but quickly discovered that he preferred poetry. Born into the Anglo-Irish landowning class, Yeats became involved with the Celtic Revival, a movement against the cultural influences of English rule in Ireland during the Victorian period, which sought to promote the spirit of Ireland's native heritage.

"The Roll-Call" is the sequel to the Clayhanger trilogy. This book concerns the young life of Clayhanger's stepson, George. George Edwin Cannon (he quickly dropped the surname Clayhanger), is an architect, in many ways representing the ambitions held by his stepfather, Edwin. However, he possesses an arrogance endowed by family wealth and Bennett examines with some aplomb the difficulty of bringing up children without spoiling them. George eventually joins the army and this is a fitting finale to this fine series. (Summary by Simon Evers)

Mary Ann Evans (22 November 1819 - 22 December 1880; alternatively Mary Anne or Marian, known by her pen name George Eliot, was an English novelist, poet, journalist, translator and one of the leading writers of the Victorian era. She wrote seven novels: Adam Bede (1859), The Mill on the Floss (1860), Silas Marner (1861), Romola (1862-63), Felix Holt, the Radical (1866), Middlemarch (1871-72) and Daniel Deronda (1876). Like Charles Dickens and Thomas Hardy, she emerged from provincial England; most of her works are set there. She is known for their realism, psychological insight, sense of place and detailed depiction of the countryside.

Adam Bede

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Adam_Bede

Adam Bede was the first novel by English author George Eliot, pen name of Mary Ann Evans, first published in 1859. It was published pseudonymously, even though Evans was a well-published and highly respected scholar of her time. The novel has remained in print ever since and is regularly used in university studies of 19th-century English literature. Eliot described the novel as "a country story full of the breath of cows and scent of hay".

The Mill on the Floss

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/The_Mill_on_the_Floss

The Mill on the Floss is a novel by English author George Eliot, pen name of Mary Ann Evans, first published, in three volumes, on 4 April 1860 by William Blackwood and Sons. The first American edition was published, in the same year, by Harper & Brothers, New York.

Romola

<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Romola>

Romola is a historical novel written between 1862 and 1863 by English author Mary Ann Evans under the pen name of George Eliot set in the late fifteenth century, specifically the 1490s. It is "a deep study of life in the city of Florence from an intellectual, artistic, religious, and social point of view".[1] The story takes place amidst actual historical events during the Italian Renaissance, and includes in its plot several notable figures from Florentine history.

On this day 200 years ago the third child of an estate manager was born in rural Warwickshire, England and christened Mary Anne Evans. We know her better as George Eliot, the nom de plume she adopted when she began to publish works of fiction in her late 30s. As George Eliot, she changed the landscape of 19th century literature, illuminating the inner lives of her characters as their moral decisions drove her stories, and transforming the novel into a genre that demanded respect from the literary establishment.

The Worthy squire boys pull up their tights to join a hunt in the English countryside as we're discussing Tony Richardson's Tom Jones. The film is based on the adaptation of Henry Fielding's classic 1749 novel The History of Tom Jones, a Foundling, and stars Albert Finney as the titular hero. Tom Jones is one of the few comedies to win Best Picture at the Academy Awards so Ben and Jon try to dissect why this film was adored at the time and how it's become forgotten over time.

We discuss the unique look and style of the film and how Richardson used some of the technical elements of the British New Wave in this wacky British comedy. Tom Jones is one of only nine films in all of cinema history that have been nominated for five Oscars for their performances and we ask the question of whether this is a sign as to why the film is not often spoken of. Come join us with beers a plenty, roast chicken dinners, and numerous lovers to discuss Tom Jones!

Joseph Andrews by Henry Fielding

A rip-roaring, rollicking, bodice-ripping romp through Georgian England! An eighteenth-century comic romp satirizing the manners, morals and fashions of the day. Joseph Andrews begins as a burlesque of Pamela, but the parodic intention of the novel soon becomes secondary, and it develops into a masterpiece of sustained irony and social criticism. At its center is Parson Adams. Joseph and the parson have a series of adventures, in all of which they manage to expose the hypocrisy and affectation of others through their own innocence and guilelessness.

H.L. Mencken was a literary bomb-thrower, a razor-tongued satirist who eviscerated hypocrisy with a style so sharp it still cuts a century later. Whether skewering politics, religion, or the absurdities of American life, Mencken's prose crackles with wit, intelligence, and unapologetic irreverence. He was the kind of writer who could make you laugh while dismantling your most cherished beliefs, and even when you disagreed with him, you couldn't help but admire his audacity. The Song of Hiawatha

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/The_Song_of_Hiawatha

The Song of Hiawatha is an 1855 epic poem in trochaic tetrameter by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow which features Native American characters. The epic relates the fictional adventures of an Ojibwe warrior named Hiawatha and the tragedy of his love for Minnehaha, a Dakota woman. Events in the story are set in the Pictured Rocks area of Michigan on the south shore of Lake Superior. Longfellow's poem is based on oral traditions surrounding the figure of Manabozho, but it also contains his own innovations.

Paul Revere's Ride

Charles C. Calhoun shows how the young poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow blended the Federalist politics and Unitarianism of his parents' generation with the German romanticism he discovered on his travels. The result was distinctive American poetry, traditional in form, but nationalistic in sentiment. Longfellow's Paul Revere, Priscilla Alden, Miles Standish, and the Village Blacksmith became American icons. And in his masterpiece, Evangeline, Longfellow invented the foundational myth of Acadian and Cajun ethnic identity.

Jonathan Swift (1667-1745)

<https://www.tcd.ie/trinitywriters/writers/jonathan-swift/>

Jonathan Swift is celebrated as the author of Gulliver's Travels (1726), the most widely read book ever written in Ireland or by an Irish writer. Never out of print since its first publication, translated into countless languages, read in innumerable editions and abridgements, made into films and cartoons (one starring Mickey Mouse), and the subject of impassioned arguments over nearly three centuries as to its essential morality or misanthropy, Gulliver's Travels is nonetheless only a small part of Jonathan Swift's writings, in verse and prose, produced over a period of more than fifty years, during which he served as a priest of the Protestant Church of Ireland, most notably as Dean of St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin.

Heritage History

<https://www.heritage-history.com/index.php?c=resources&s=char-dir&f=swift>

Jonathan Swift was an Irish Clergyman and an 18th century literary figure. He is most famous as the author of Gulliver's Travels, but also wrote several other books, plays, and poems, as well as a number of famous essays. He was politically active in the Tory party toward the end of the reign of Queen Anne, and many of his essays have political overtones. His A Modest Proposal, for example is a political satire that censures the British government's indifference to the suffering of the Irish peasants. Even Gulliver's Travels is an allegory with highly political overtones, making fun of the Whig government that controlled Britain during most of Swift's life.

A Modest Proposal

A Modest Proposal for Preventing the Children of Poor People from Being a Burthen to Their Parents or Country, and for Making Them Beneficial to the Publick, [1] commonly referred to as A Modest Proposal, is a Juvenalian satirical essay written and published by Anglo-Irish writer and clergyman Jonathan Swift in 1729.

Jonathan Swift (30 November 1667 - 19 October 1745) was an Anglo-Irish satirist, author, essayist, political pamphleteer (first for the Whigs, then for the Tories), poet, and Anglican cleric who became Dean of St Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, hence his common sobriquet, "Dean Swift".

Gulliver's Travels (1939) Jonathan Swift | Adventure, Comedy | Animated Movie

[Video] <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=rehNT9wIjUg> [1:15:19]

Gulliver washes ashore on Lilliput and attempts to prevent war between a tiny kingdom and its equally-miniscule rival, Blefuscu, as well as smooth the way for the romance between the Princess and Prince of the opposing lands. In this he is alternately aided and hampered by the Lilliputian town crier and general fussbudget, Gabby. A life-threatening situation develops when the bumbling trio of Blefuscu spies, Sneak, Snoop, and Snitch, manage to steal Gulliver's pistol.

In a lecture based on the book that won the 2018 Cundill History Prize, "The Dawn Watch: Joseph Conrad in a Global World", Professor Maya Jasanoff (Harvard University) presents Conrad as a prophet of globalization. Jasanoff explores how Conrad was deeply influenced by the dawn of the twentieth century – the tensions of global capitalism, encroaching imperialism and unprecedented migration which still characterize our global world.

The works of Joseph Conrad encompass novels, short stories, nonfiction, and memoirs. Although he was born in Ukraine and spoke Polish and French fluently from childhood, he wrote in English, which he did not learn until his twenties. Philosopher Wincenty Lutosławski recalled Conrad explaining this, saying "I value our beautiful Polish literature too much to bring into it my clumsy efforts. But for the English my gifts are sufficient and secure my daily bread."

About the Author: Joseph Conrad, born in Poland, learned English in his 20s and became a British citizen. A sailor, he wrote about adventures at sea and of the strangeness of people he met around the world. An early Modernist, he was a prolific writer and has left behind several works of note - novels and short stories.
About the Novel: Heart of Darkness is a novella spanning only a 100 pages but it has a theme of enormous magnitude: it reveals what the imagination of man can make him do, what potential he has. Set in the Congo, it exposes the reality of colonialism and the racism that accompanies it.

About the Presenter: Mohini Khot has made literature her life. She delights in spreading the love of literature and the fine arts through forums such as The Book Club.

International Booker Prize

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/International_Booker_Prize

The International Booker Prize (formerly known as the Man Booker International Prize) is an international literary award hosted in the United Kingdom. The introduction of the International Prize to complement the Man Booker Prize, as the Booker Prize was then known, was announced in June 2004.[1] Sponsored by the Man Group, from 2005 until 2015 the award was given every two years to a living author of any nationality for a body of work published in English or generally available in English translation.[2] It rewarded one author's "continued creativity, development and overall contribution to fiction on the world stage", [3] and was a recognition of the writer's body of work rather than any one title.

Dance of the Happy Shades is a book of short stories by Alice Munro, published by Ryerson Press in 1968. It was her first collection of stories and won the 1968 Governor General's Award for English Fiction. The title of the main story is the English translation provided for the ballet in Gluck's Orfeo ed Euridice when it was first presented in London.

Lives of Girls and Women

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Lives_of_Girls_and_Women

Lives of Girls and Women is a novel by Nobel Prize-winning Canadian author Alice Munro, published by McGraw-Hill Ryerson in 1971. Although described and marketed as a novel, in form it resembles a collection of interlinked short stories, with discrete chapters narrated by the main character, Del Jordan.

The novel is often cited as concerning many feminist ideas and it is in this context that the text deals primarily with female characters, with only a few male figures playing important roles.

The Lion and the Jewel is a play by Nigerian writer Wole Soyinka that was first performed in 1959 in Ibadan. In 1966, it was staged in London, England, at the Royal Court Theatre.

The play chronicles how Baroka, the lion, fights with the modern Lakunle over the right to marry Sidi, the titular Jewel. Lakunle is portrayed as the civilized antithesis of Baroka and unilaterally attempts to modernize his community and change its social conventions for no reason other than the fact that he can. This is a parody of the westernized elite that inherited power from the colonists upon Independence in Africa.
